A SIR COUTTS LINDSAY, Bart.,
Grosvenor Gallery.

Un group de peintres français, unis par les mêmes tendances esthétiques, luttant depuis dix ans contre les conventions et les routines pour ramener l'art à l'observation scrupuleusement exacte de la nature, s'appliquant avec passion à rendre la réalité des formes en mouvement, ainsi que les phénomènes si fugitifs de la lumière, ne peut oublier qu'il a été précédé dans cette voie par un grand maître de l'école anglaise, l'illustre Turner.

Ce glorieux précédent nous a inspiré le très ardent désir de soumettre le résultat de nos efforts à l'élite des amateurs et des artistes d'Angleterre.

Dans un modeste local de King street, nous avons déjà montré à quelques personnes, et en particulier aux représentants de la presse, un certain nombre de nos tableaux. L'accueil a été très sympathique, les encouragements les plus flatteurs nous ont été donnés et on a bien voulu nous assurer qu'une exposition plus complète de nos œuvres aurait un grand intérêt pour le public et une certaine utilité pour l'art en Angleterre.

Nul lieu ne serait plus favorable à une telle exposition que les galeries de Grosvenor où les artistes indépendants reçoivent une hospitalité aussi brillante que généreuse et nous serions très heureux d'être autorisés à y envoyer nos ouvrages. Il dépend de vous, Monsieur, que ce vœu soit réalisé; nous venons en conséquence vous prier de vouloir bien nous donner les facilités nécessaires à cet effet.

Dans la ferme espérance que Sir Coutts Lindsay, protecteur si éclairé des arts accueillera notre demande avec bienveillance, nous le prions de vouloir bien agréer l'assurance de notre haute considération,

JOHN LEWIS BROWN, 64 rue de la Rochefoucauld.

BOUDIN, 11 place Vintimille.

DEGAS, 19 bis rue fontaine.

CLAUDE MONET, Villa Juliette à Poissy, Seine et Oise.

PISSARO, quai de Ponthuis à Pontoise.

RENOIR, 35 rue St. Georges.

SISLEY, à Veneux Nadon par Moret.

MAD<sup>LLE</sup>. CASSATT, 2 rue Duperré.

MADAME MORISOT MANET, à Bougival, Seine et Oise.

A group of French painters, united by the same æsthetic tendencies, struggling for ten years against convention and routine to bring back art to the scrupulously exact observation of nature, applying themselves with passion to the rendering of reality of form in movement, as well as to the so fugitive phenomenons of light, cannot forget that it has been preceded in this path by a great master of the English School, the illustrious Turner.

This glorious precedent has inspired the very ardent desire to submit the results of our efforts to the connoisseurs and artists of England. In modest premises in King Street we have already shown some people, and chiefly the representatives of the Press, a certain number of our pictures. The reception was very sympathetic, most flattering encouragement was given us, and we were assured that a more complete exhibition of our works would have great interest for the public, and a certain usefulness for the art of England. No place would be more favourable for such an exhibition than the Grosvenor Gallery, where independent artists receive a hospitality as brilliant as it is generous, and we would be very happy to be authorised to send some of our works there. It depends upon you, Sir, that this wish should be realised, consequently we come to beg you to be so kind as to give us the necessary facilities. In the firm hope that Sir Coutts Lindsay, so enlightened a patron of art, will receive our request with kindness, and assuring him of our high consideration.
